How is your organization re-imagining policing?

Local Organization works to reimagine policing and divest from its historical harms through our advocacy campaigns and community engagement initiatives. We are specifically committed to reducing the role of police in response to opioid use by working with our community partners to pass a City Charter Amendment via ballot initiative that would allow for the legal operation of a healthcare facility that provides substance testing, use monitoring, and wraparound intervention services for individuals who use drugs. By providing individuals who use drugs a stigma-free, monitored location free from police intervention and persecution, we drastically increase our opportunities to reduce overdose-related deaths and health incidents, and provide a pathway to care when individuals are ready.
